

Memorize the Presidents

- A Do you know any good jokes?
- B No, but I have a riddle.
- A Works for me.
- B Which American President wore the biggest hat?
- A Easy! Abraham Lincoln!
- B No. The one with the biggest head!
- A Ohhhh ...that's sneaky!
- B I know. Everyone wants to say Lincoln.
- A Yeah, because he wore a tall hat.
- B A stove pipe hat.
- A Uh-huh. But I guess ... that doesn't make it the biggest, right?
- B Exactly.
- A What else do you know about Abraham Lincoln?
- B I know he was sixteenth President.
- A How do you remember that?!
- B Because I memorized them.
- A That's amazing! You memorized all the Presidents?!
- B Well ... I didn't exactly finish ...
- A What do you mean you didn't finish?
- B I'm still working on it. So for starters, I just memorized the good ones.

Who Was That?

- A Hello again.
- B Hi. Hi. Hi.
- A Are you still waiting for Susan?
- B She should be here soon ...
- A Susan?
- B Sue.
- A Who?
- B Your cousin Susan.
- A She's not my cousin! I thought she was your cousin!
- B My cousin Susan from California?
- A No! Your cousin Sue from Ohio.
- B No. I would never wait for her.
- A Me neither.
- B Good.
- A Hey! Don't talk that way about my cousin!
- B She's my cousin too, you know!
- A Well ... she was my cousin first!
- B Doesn't matter. I've been waiting for her longer!
